

NO COMPROMISE WITH REACTION DAVIS ASSERTS

Democratic Nominee Issue
Formal Statement—
Walsh Refusal

New York, July 10.—When informed of his nomination for president on the Democratic ticket, John W. Davis issued a statement saying:

"I can not but feel deeply sensible of the honor done me by the convention and am even more conscious of the weighty obligations that have fallen to me by its deliberate and unanimous choice. Not least of these is the duty to put before the country as clearly as my powers permit the Democratic creed and the Democratic policy as the convention has declared them.

"That this creed and this policy will receive the militant support of all those who call themselves by the Democratic name I do not doubt for an instant. I shall hope to rally to their aid that great body of liberal, progressive and independent thought which believes that 'progress is motion, government is action,' which denies privilege in whatever form and which does not wish the American people or their government to stand still or retreat from the midst of a changing world. There can be no compromise with reaction. Liberal principles must and will prevail. This is the mandate of the hour and I shall obey it."

Senator Walsh of Montana, in declining the Democratic nomination for vice president, said in a letter read to the Democratic convention:

"I am profoundly appreciative of the generous regard exhibited toward me by the convention, over whose deliberations I have had the honor to preside for the past two weeks, and find it hard to decline to yield to the desire manifested by so many of the delegates that I accept the nomination as its candidate for vice president."

"Reflection has confirmed me in the view that it would be wise neither from a party nor a personal point of view to transfer me from the floor to the chair of the presiding officer of the senate. Scarcely less important than the election of a Democratic president is the control of the senate, and particularly of the senate by the Democrats. My term is expiring and my re-election to the senate is reasonably certain, in view of the services I have been able to render. Some equally competent Democrat can easily be found for the exalted office to which you would elevate me, whose selection would involve no such sacrifice for the party as would be entailed by my nomination."

William J. Bryan, who openly opposed the nomination of Davis as the Democratic presidential candidate, announced after Davis had been nominated that he would "support the ticket."

Former Governor Cox of Ohio lauded Davis as the Democratic nominee. He said: "Mr. Davis will make a profound impression on the country at the very outset of the campaign. None of the elements which make him an able man are more conspicuous than his intelligence, courage and honesty."

HERE IS VOTE ON FINAL BALLOT

New York, July 10.—The official roll call of the 103rd ballot for president in the Democratic National Convention as it stood at the point when the nomination of John W. Davis of West Virginia was made by acclamation showed these totals:

Davis, 833½; Underwood, 108; Robinson, 29; McAdoo, 11½; Smith 7½; Walsh, 58; Meredith, 15½; Glass, 23; Daniels, 17; Hull, 1; and Gerard, 8. Total voting, 1092. Absent or not voting, 6. Necessary to a choice, 728.

TRACTION MAGNATE KILLS WIFE AND THEN HANGS SELF

Michigan City, Ind., July 10.—Charles N. Wilcoxon, 68, retired president of the Chicago, Lake Shore & South Bend Electric Railway, killed his wife and then committed suicide. The bodies were found at his home near this city. Mrs. Wilcoxon, who was 70 years old, had been beaten over the head and body with an ax and a potato masher and slashed with a razor. Wilcoxon was found hanging from the ceiling of his wardrobe. Bloodstains were found on Wilcoxon's hand and clothing.

Wilcoxon and his wife had been in an automobile accident Monday. The shock of the accident, it was believed, precipitated Wilcoxon's loss of mind.

HOME TOWN FOLKS HAD FAITH IN ULTIMATE SUCCESS OF JOHN W. DAVIS AND DREAMS CAME TRUE

New York, July 10.—Down in Clarksburg, W. Va., everybody knows him simply as "John"—this boyish looking, but gray haired presidential nominee of the Democratic party.

Down in Clarksburg, a city with a population of only about 15,000, everybody has said for years that "John" was going to make a high mark in the world.

They said "some day John will be president of the United States."

They have had a "Davis-for-President-of-the-United States club" for so long that it has almost turned into the "oldest inhabitants club."

Two weeks ago, more than 100 members of the home town club came to New York to make John W. Davis the nominee of the Democratic party.

NEBRASKAN TO RUN WITH DAVIS

CHARLES W. BRYAN

Charles W. Bryan, brother of William Jennings Bryan and Governor of Nebraska was chosen for the vice-presidential nomination by the Democrats.

He is said to fit the desire of the party for a Western man who is close to agricultural interests.

PREMIERS DRAW JOINT VOTE ON DAWES PROPOSAL

MacDonald And Herriot Suggest Settlement of the Plan.

Paris, July 10.—At the conference between Prime Minister MacDonald of England and Premier Herriot of France a joint note to the allies was drawn up suggesting how the different questions connected with the application of the Dawes plan might be settled.

The British premier said the documents he had drawn up with Herriot constituted the joint note which explained how the Dawes' plan problems might be settled at the inter-allied London conference which remained fixed for July 16. He declared there was no thought of postponing the conference. MacDonald added: "We have succeeded in making a substantial beginning toward a full accord between France and Great Britain."

In his statement Premier MacDonald said:

"What an effect it would produce if we postponed it even for a short time. We have invited the Americans to be present and they might think it queer if we were unable to go on with the conference at the date which was fixed for it."

"We are facing an exceedingly intricate series of misunderstandings which have grown up during the past few years. It will take time, patience and generosity of feeling between the two countries to settle them. Given these conditions, our countries will again become the most friendly on earth."

It was suggested that the inter-allied council of ambassadors, with an American member having full rights with the others, and the council perhaps enlarged to take in some of the neutral states, supersede the reparations commission in supervising execution of the Dawes plan. Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot both are understood to be eager to arrange the supervision so the United States shall have a share in it on equal footing with the allies.

Germany's request that international military control of her armaments cease on Sept. 30 was denied by the allied council of ambassadors in a note handed to the German ambassador.

They opened headquarters in the Waldorf-Astoria. The funds were short, but they all chipped in and made up the expenses.

The home town club was all the organization that Davis had. It proved to be all that he needed. Not another candidate had so enthusiastic a delegation. Whenever a vote was announced for Davis, this West Virginia delegation was thrown almost into frenzies of joy.

The success of this enthusiastic little band, which never for once forgot its mission, is down in history.

That is why today the home town associates of Davis are parading the hotel lobbies, chanting "our John," who overnight has brought Clarksburg more publicity than ever before in its history.

They don't care,—these home towners,—how the world may refer to Davis—former representative in congress, former solicitor general of the United States, former American ambassador to the court of St. James, former president of the American Bar Association—he will always be "John W. Davis, who grew up with them as a boy and into manhood, and then ventured forth."

"And we're going to be at John's party at the White House on March 4," they shout.

"I just knew he would do it," said one Izetta Jewel Brown, once a candidate for the United States senate from West Virginia. "We never once gave up hope. John Davis will win—he'll unite all forces in the party for a great triumph this fall."

So the home town club of Clarksburg is going to expand into a nation organization with chapters everywhere.

Charleston, West. Va., July 10.—The nomination of John W. Davis for president is looked upon today by Democrats and Republicans of his native state as representing a wise choice on the part of his party.

Republicans, however, qualify their approval with the prediction that, despite his high personal qualities, Mr. Davis will be unable to carry his party to victory next fall.

Governor E. F. Morgan may be regarded to have summarized the Republican view in his comment on the convention's choice.

"I think the convention made a good selection," the governor said. "John W. Davis is an outstanding and high type of American citizen."

News of the nomination was received with enthusiasm among Democrats generally. Most of the party leaders had not yet returned from New York.

Those here were enthusiastic in their endorsement of the convention's action. They had been following the long drawn out proceedings eagerly at first, but with misgivings as the deadlock continued and the final culmination of the struggle, marking the first nomination of a West Virginian for the presidency by either of the two major parties was received with hearty acclaim.

COUZENS BALKS ON SUPPORTING PARTY PLATFORM POLICIES

Detroit, July 10.—Senator James Couzens declined the invitation of Republican state leaders to swear unstinted support to the party platform and the Coolidge policies. Formally announcing his candidacy for reelection, the senator asserted that as long as he was a member of the Republican party he did not propose to yield his independence to "party bosses or party leaders." Senator Couzens said:

"There is nothing in the constitution that requires that I say 'Yes' to everything that the president, whoever he may be, proposes, nor do I believe it is the desire of my constituents that I abjectly promise to follow someone and do his bidding. If complete adherence to the proposals of policies of President Coolidge is the test of Republicanism, there are no Republicans in the national congress. I consider the fact that congress has refused to be dictated to and controlled by the president as a strong element in the safety of our republic."

STATES MAY SUE OIL COMPANIES

Washington, July 10.—As a result of a conference here between Attorney General Stone and a committee representing the national association of state attorneys general, separate legal action may be taken by half a dozen states as a supplement to the federal move against the gasoline and oil companies. The conference, arranged at the request of Attorney General Spillman of Nebraska, chairman of the association's committee, was understood to have developed discussion along the line of individual state action when Mr. Stone assured the committee that the states attorneys general were welcome to all the information gathered by the department of justice in its year and a half study of the gasoline problem. Mr. Stone's offer to turn over all of the federal government data means, officials said, that state prosecuting officials will have to dig into only local situations.

DEMOCRATS FINALLY AT PEACE

Calvin Coolidge Jr. Buried "Back Home" At Plymouth

Northampton, Mass., July 10.—Back in this little town, where but sixteen short years ago he was born, Calvin Coolidge, Jr., son of the President, was carried today to pause momentarily in the journey to his final resting place in the Vermont hills, of his forefathers.

It is here that Calvin spent his early childhood and it was here that his heart-broken parents chose to accord him one final tribute before the burial in the Coolidge family plot at Plymouth, Vt.

In the quiet red brick Congregational church that only a few years ago claimed the President's son as one of its youngest members, simple services were conducted over the rose blanketed casket.

Rev. Dr. Kenneth B. Wells, Calvin's childhood pastor, read the Twenty third psalm while playmates and friends stopped beside the casket to pay a last tribute.

About the coffin were the immediate family, President and Mrs. Coolidge bearing with fortitude their first Washington, July 10.—John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, is a native of Clarksburg, W. Va., where he long practiced law and which he twice represented in congress. He was born there April 13, 1873. Of a prosperous family, his education proceeded to completion without the interruption of his being compelled to work for a living. He was graduated in law from Washington and Lee university. Later his success gained him in addition to this modest bachelor of laws the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Washington and Lee, University of West Virginia, University of Birmingham, England; University of Glasgow and Yale.

Davis served for two years as assistant professor of law at Washington and Lee. Then in 1897 he hung out his shingle in Clarksburg where he maintained his practice until he was appointed solicitor general of the United States by President Wilson in 1913. In the meantime he had served in the sixty-second and sixty-third congresses.

As a lawyer, Davis early exhibited that legal ability which later was to mark him as one of the most noted attorneys of his generation. He varied his initial legal endeavors by a considerable interest in West Virginia Democratic politics. Davis married Julia T. McDonald in 1899, but his wife died in the following year. In 1912 he married Ellen G. Bassel.

In 1918 Wilson selected Davis to the most important diplomatic post in the service of the government, plenipotentiary to Great Britain. Davis served at London until 1921, representing the United States during a difficult period marked by victory in the war, the negotiation of the Versailles treaty, and the refusal of the American senate to ratify either the treaty or the covenant of the league of nations. Davis returned to private practice in this country to build up his modest fortunes, which had suffered by the expenses imposed by his duties at the London post. As a member of a prominent New York legal firm he practiced corporation law and numbered the great banking houses of Morgan among his clients.

At the Democratic convention in San Francisco in 1920 West Virginia cast her vote regularly for Davis for president. At one time during the long deadlock between McAdoo, Palmer and Cox forces observers sensed a near-standstill to Davis. But it did not come off.

Davis' present home is in Long Island, New York.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, standard time at the home of John E. McClanahan, near Yellow Springs, with interment in Woodland Cemetery, Xenia.

WITH NOMINATION OF DAVIS AND "BROTHER CHARLEY" BRYAN LONG CONVENTION ENDS IN HARMONY

New Standard Bearer Dictates Choice of Running Mate
In Mid-Session Conference—Weary Delegates
Go Home Satisfied

New York, July 10.—DAVIS AND BRYAN.

Out of sixteen days of dickering and quarrelling, bitterness and hatred, the exhausted hosts of Democracy dug their way out of the trenches of Madison Square Garden this morning, grimy, tired and fairly well united behind this ticket.

Their dissensions, they said, were left buried in those garden runways where they toiled and fought so long—longer than any other delegates to any other major political convention in the history of American politics.

The Davis part of it took the sixteen days. The Bryan part took but little more than sixteen minutes.

But, irrespective of the difference in time of accomplishment, Democratic chieftains professed themselves equally satisfied today with both jobs. They were scattering to their long sought homes today to tell the rank and file all about it.

John W. Davis of West Virginia and New York, took charge of the Democratic party today. He assumed the leadership theoretically at 3:36 Wednesday. About ten hours later he grabbed it with both hands.

His first act was to name a man as his running mate—Governor Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska.

For sixteen days, Davis had been reading the uncomplimentary things said about him by that other Bryan of Nebraska—William Jennings Bryan. He had seen himself referred to as "J. Pierpont Morgan's lawyer, and Wall street's candidate," he had heard of the dire predictions made by W. J. Bryan as to "what would happen to him in the wide open spaces of the great west, if he were nominated."

And so, being nominated, his first act of leadership was to name on the ticket with him the brother of W. J. The latter promptly "dug up the hatchet" which he buried at San Francisco four years ago when James M. Cox was nominated and which he had reconsigned to the grave in New York even before the garden rafters had ceased vibrating from the cheers that greeted Davis' nomination! Today William Jennings Bryan was "supporting the ticket."

The nomination of "Brother Charley" was accomplished with little fuss or feathers. Along about 1 o'clock this morning, when the delegates wobbled in their seats and yawned and oratory, the conventions seemed to be headed for another fight. No one wanted it, but no one seemed to be able to stop it—that is, no one but John W. Davis.

A recess of one hour was proposed to give the leaders an opportunity to get together on a vice president. It had a familiar ring—that phrase "to give the leaders a chance to confer." The home-hungry delegates howled it down.

"The ayes have it," calmly announced Congressman A. W. Barkley, of Kentucky, who was in the chair. And before the delegates could recover from their astonishment at this piece of business, the recess was actually on.

Davis, accompanied by Governor Al Smith, George E. Brennan, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, E. L. Meredith, Frank L. Polk, Frank Hague, Tom Taggart and Joe Guffey, with a few others, slipped out the back way and crossed to the Manhattan Club. Governor Smith led the way to the conference room on the top floor of the Manhattan Club where he had conducted his own fight for the presidential nomination for two weeks.

Davis asked Walsh to take the job. The convention plainly wanted him. Had he not been struck for and faster of head, it would have been wished on him right after Davis' nomination. Walsh refused. He said he wanted to stay in the senate. Davis turned to Meredith. The Iowa shook his head.

"It's gotta be someone from the west," volunteered somebody.

"How about Bryan—C. W. not W. J.?" asked the nominee.

There was a pause. Then the happiness of thought struck home. William Jennings Bryan was sitting under the platform in the garden figuratively burying his head again. The convention had been deaf to his appeals as it had been in 1920 and it was recalled that in 1920 little aid and comfort had been given the Cox-Roosevelt ticket by the great commoner.

"Fine," came from some one; "good" from another.

An hour later the thing was done. It would have been sooner if the reading clerk had not been tired from 103 roll calls and could have stepped along a little faster.

On the showdown, Governor Bryan got 739 votes, barely over two thirds, Major George L. Berry of Tennessee, "the labor candidate" 212 1-2, with a hundred other votes scattered between Bennett Clark, of Missouri; Mrs. Leroy Springs, of South Carolina; Alvin Owsley, of Texas; Governor Silzer, of New Jersey; Mayor John F. Hylan, of New York, and Governor J. M. Davis, of Kansas.

There were boos and hisses from the galleries at Bryan's victory. Al Smith's friends from the "sidewalks of New York," do not love the name of Bryan.

But there was applause from the delegates on the floor, who were thinking of the appeal the name of "Bryan" will have to the agricultural west where the name "Davis" is little known.

The convention wound up with the conventional love feast.

Smith was there and spoke of a united party. Cox was there and figuratively handed on the party standard.

The only vacant seat bore the name of William G. McAdoo. He remained in seclusion atop the Vanderbilt Hotel. He would see nobody, and he would make no statement on either man. He will sail for Europe Saturday for a long stay.

M'ADOO IS SILENT ON NOMINATION; IS URGED TO RUN

New York, July 10.—"I have nothing to say."

This was the only comment William G. McAdoo would make today on the outcome of the Democratic national convention in which he was one of the leading figures.

Asked the direct question whether he would support the Davis-Bryan ticket, McAdoo looked up from his breakfast only long enough to repeat: "I have nothing to say."

McAdoo intimated that he might have a statement to make of his position, prior to his sailing for Europe Saturday aboard the Homer.

"If I do issue a statement," he said, "I will answer your question then."

McAdoo denied with some heat, reports that there had been a rift between himself and his campaign manager, David L. Rockwell.

"We never were more friendly," he declared.

He had breakfast with Rockwell this morning and discussed, presumably his future plans. He said he did not know how long he would stay abroad or where he would spend the summer. According to reports, however, the McAdoo's will be domiciled for the summer at Monmouth Beach, N. J., where a house has been rented.

Aside from a perfunctory and conventional telegram of congratulation, McAdoo has not expressed himself concerning the nomination of Davis.

It is known, however, that some of his friends have urged him to run independently or to come out for Senator LaFollette's ticket, but thus far he has refused to commit himself.

XENIAN IS UNHURT WHEN HIS TRUCK IS STRUCK BY TRAIN

Kenneth Elliott, North Detroit Street, escaped without injury when the large truck belonging to The Eavey Wholesale Grocery Co., this city, which he was driving, was struck by a Pennsylvania train at Morrow, O., Thursday morning.

The truck was badly damaged according to word received in Xenia but Elliott escaped by jumping. Another truck from The Eavey Company was driven to the scene of the accident on receipt of the word here, to unload the goods assigned to the territory by the company.

BRYAN TO SUPPORT TICKET ACTIVELY

New York, July 10.—Dudley Field Malone yesterday informed William Jennings Bryan in a message that he regretfully felt "the best thing for the party" would be for Mr. Bryan "to withdraw from the convention now."

"I say this with affectionate goodwill," the message said, "for you know I toured the country for you three times for president and served under you as assistant secretary of state."

Mr. Malone declared that unfortunately Mr. Bryan could not "grasp the economic realities of the time, and that he did not know that 'the problems of our industrial age cannot be solved by the pious platitudes' Mr. Bryan had put in the Democratic platform."

JAP DIPLOMAT LEAVES FOR HOME

Washington, July 10.—Masano Hanthars, who as Japanese ambassador to the United States failed to prevent the congress excluding Japanese and other orinal immigration bid farewell official Washington today as presented to the state department his successor, ad interim, Isaburo Yoshida.

Hanthara leaves tomorrow for San Francisco and will sail for Japan of July 18. His return to Washington is contingent upon the political situation in Tokio, but it is generally expected that he will not again serve as the ambassador to the United States.

NOMINATION OF J. W. DAVIS PLEASES PRESS OF BRITAIN WHERE HE WAS ONCE AMBASSADOR

London, July 10.—British newspapers today hailed with satisfaction the presidential nomination of John W. Davis, by the Democratic national convention. Most of the big London dailies paid high tribute to Davis who is well known here, having served as American ambassador.

It was pointed out that Davis is a man of winning personality and high character and has won fame in his own country as a lawyer and diplomat.

"Englishmen do not desire to take sides in politics on the other side of the Atlantic and there is no certainty that Britons would obtain special advantage whether a Republican or Democrat was elected," said the Times.

"But Englishmen know Mr. Davis at first hand on account of his residence here, and his nomination cannot fail but be satisfactory."

The DAILY NEWS commented: "Out of the pandemonium has emerged at last and unexpectedly a spirit of wisdom. Every liberal minded Briton welcomes the nomination of Mr. Davis. If he succeeds President Coolidge he will bring to the dis-

NOMINEE SEVERS CONNECTION WITH FIRM OF LAWYERS

New York, July 10.—John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for the presidency, announced today he will immediately sever his connection with the law firm of which he has been a member since resigning as ambassador to Great Britain.

He will wind up his business affairs as speedily as possible and then embark on "an active campaign" that contemplates weeks of speechmaking through the country.

Davis announced these plans at the Waldorf, surrounded by scores of newspaper men and friends. His personal plans are still in a state of flux, he said, and will depend largely upon what campaign arrangements have been made by the Democratic national committee.

The nominee declined to discuss political questions or issues.

"The son of the President of the United States is being buried today," he said, "and I think this day should be kept sort of non political. Later on there will be time and opportunity to talk."

Storm Insurance?

Don't think Xenia is not exposed to terrific storms—because it is.
The people of Lorain, Ohio, evidently did not think they would be hit if the very, very small amount of storm insurance carried is a criterion.
Ohio has had 7 storms severe enough to cause heavy loss this year.

MODISH MITZI—Thrift Is A Wonderful Thing!

Mitzi is explaining to Polly how really thrifty she is. Polly's somewhat incredulous expressions betrays the fact that she is hardly convinced (Notice her dress—it is organdie trimmed with dotted net ruffles.

"You see," says Mitzi, addressing Polly, "this is the skirt of my newest dress. It is pleated white crepe de chine and I can wear it with any white blouse." Which sounds reasonable, you must admit.

"And this," Mitzi continues, "is the blouse, also of pleated white crepe de chine with a yoke of Irish crochet lace. I can wear this with any white skirt!"

"And here," concluded Mitzi "is the whole dress. It's a most economical costume!" Polly is still unconvinced. She can, of course, take pattern after Mitzi, but will she?"

FORMAL OPENING OF CLUB THURSDAY

The formal opening of the social activities of the Xenia Country Club will be held with a dinner-dance at the club house Thursday evening. This initial social event of the current season will be followed by several more during the months of August, September and October.

Covers will be laid for more than 100 guests, making it necessary for the dinner to be served promptly at 6:30 o'clock, as the club house will be taxed to the limit of its capacity. The dinner will be followed by a dance, with the music furnished by John Flotron's orchestra, of Dayton.

THE TIME IS RIPE FOR
BUILDERS TO QUIT
USING LUMBER THAT IS PULLED TOO
GREEN.

Let us supply your frames and you won't be delayed in your building operations. Invariably delays are caused by frames not being delivered as agreed, but never when we get the order, for we realize the importance of having them on hand promptly and see to it that they are there. Whether its cellar frames, door or window frames, our service is the same.

Now is the Time to Shade your Porch

With a belated summer still to enjoy, you can install AEROLUX Ventilating Porch Shades and get several happy months out of your sun exposed Porch. AEROLUX Shades are not dependent upon a small ventilating area for air circulation but will give full length ventilation by which every vagrant summer breeze is captured, yet they shut out the summer's hot sun and rain. They are weather proof, stained in walnut, brown, green and green and white.

We Recommend AEROLUX Shades because—

- 1—They give full length ventilation.

"LACK OF TACT"

It's always fair weather when good fellows of the same social and political persuasion get together. It is the morning after that is the rub. Explanations are sometimes difficult to give and yet difficult to refuse. The get-together meeting of Herriot and MacDonald admittedly was harbinger of an era of good feeling. But the morning after Herriot talked too much and MacDonald kept too quiet. The home folk, knowing the two Premiers to be mutually sympathetic, wondered whether they had committed, respectively, France and Great Britain to a two-hearts-that-beat-as-one course, and if so, by what sweet surrenders. There are few that charge either Premier with anything worse than lack of tact. Neither the British nor the French, however, want to see their political managers get too chummy. Personal contacts between the two countries are all very well, but notional interests must come first. And in this case, of course, they will.

ADVICE TO HAY FEVER VICTIMS

Victims of hay fever are increasing, according to a study made public by the Health service. William Scheppegrell, president of the American Hay Fever Prevention association, who made the investigation, has laid down some rules that should be followed, he said, to avoid contagion.

In the selection of homes, hay fever subjects, he says, should be careful to choose localities distant from weed-infested areas, at least a mile away. Pollen of rag-weeds may travel five miles or more in windy weather. While most trees and vines used for ornamental purposes do not convey fever, the Japanese clematis carries a pollen.

Electric fans should be avoided during the hay fever season. Teatons and other gathering places should be avoided. A reasonable amount of exercise is beneficial, the expert said. Swimming in salt water is excellent. Railroad trips should be avoided as much as possible.

YESSER, YESSER

Senator LaFollette told the Cleveland conference that he was about to run for President and would submit his name, together with the names of duly qualified electors in every State of the Union. "Yes, Senator!" was the reply of the conference. He placed before the self-appointed delegates there the platform he wanted. "Yes, Senator!" was the conference answer. He let it be known that he preferred that the movement be not known as a third party. Again they bowed and "vessed" him. He intimated that it would be better to permit him to pick his own vice presidential running mate. Once more they fervently agreed. The conference jumped sideways at every whisper of its masters voice. Called to protest against the "dominated" parties, there never in political history has been a convention more thoroughly bossed than this. Every seat in Cleveland's Public Hall seems to have been filled by some congenial "yesser."

1904-Twenty Years Ago-1924

Xenia Castle No. 111, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will be instituted this evening by two companies of Lincoln Castle, No. 9, of Springfield, each company having fifty members. In addition, there will be prominent members from all over the state in attendance.

Mr. B. F. Vincent, of Portsmouth, an experienced manufacturer of iron and steel products, was recently in the city, and in company with Attorney Frank H.

Dean, called on a number of citizens of the city with a view of interesting them in a new industry for Xenia.

The game of base ball between a Xenia team and a Yellow Springs team, which was played at Yellow Springs on Saturday afternoon, resulted in a score of 11 to 2 in favor of Xenia.

The annual reunion of the O. S. and S. O. Home will begin Tuesday, July 12, and will continue over three days.

Several readers have written to ask me to publish the following:

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING A HOOKED RUG: The first thing to decide is whether you are able to draw your own rug design. If you are, procure a piece of canvas which is a little larger than the size you wish the finished rug to be. Take a piece of charcoal, or a child's black crayon, and draw a flower design a conventional design or any other design you prefer on the canvas. Then get a carpenter to saw you four pieces of flat pine board (three inches wide) a little longer than the rug canvas. Arrange these four lengths of board so as to form a frame (like a quilting frame, only smaller) and secure the ends together with quilting-frame iron clamps. Tack the extreme edges of the rug canvas to this frame and you are ready to begin the hooking.

If, however, you are not able to make a freehand design of your own on the canvas, then you will have to buy a regular stamped hooked rug canvas which comes with the design already on. If you do not know where to buy one of these in your vicinity, send me a stamped and self-addressed envelope and I will send you the name and address of a place from which you can buy a stamped hooked rug canvas by mail. I believe these come in the following sizes: 27 by 64 inches; 36 by 50 inches; 36 by 64 inches; 36 by 68 inches; and 36 by 72 inches. They cost about $1.50 per canvas. You can also buy a rug hook from the same address, which will cost around 50 cents. If two persons are to work on the rug together, I advise you to buy two hooks. After buying your rug canvas, take it to a carpenter and have him cut four boards to fit it, then tack the rug onto the frame as described above.

How the Hooking is Done: The hooking process consists simply in hooking a loop (one-half inch long) of cotton goods (which you have cut into strips, on the bias, three-quarters of an inch wide) through the rug canvas close together. Hold the cotton strip beneath the canvas with the left hand. With the right hand push the rug hook through the canvas, then draw a loop of the cotton strip up through the canvas with this hook. Your rug is done when the entire surface of the canvas is covered with these loops. Different colored cotton strips are used in masses, to bring out the design. Generally a dark color is used as background for this design.

Corn Crop Estimate.

Washington, July 10.—The forecast of the federal department of agriculture places total corn production at 2,615,000,000 bushels. An unusually cold May, followed by an excessively wet June, were responsible for the low condition of corn, but were decidedly favorable for wheat, oats and barley, which show decided improvement in prospect over a month ago. Indications are that the corn crop will be 500,000,000 bushels less than last year.

THE LESSON OF FAILURE
It wasn't the failure which hurt me,
And it wasn't the sting of the blow;
It wasn't the cheers of the throng in my ears
For the smiling, victorious foe,
But the knowledge that I hadn't ventured to try
But had cravenly let the thing go.

They think that ill luck had betrayed me,
They think by mischance I was thrown;
They would soothe my defeat with encouragement sweet,
But I know what to them is unknown—
I failed to be true to the best I could do
And the blame for the loss is my own.

Now, looking back over the battle,
And living the long struggle through,
I could take second place with a smile on my face
Had I lost with the best I could do,
But what hurts me today is the half-hearted way
That I fought with disaster in view.

And this is the lesson of failure,
It is this that we learn in the test:
Too often we lose by neglecting to use
The courage of which we're possessed.
And now that it's done, though I might not have won,
I could have lived up to my best.

A NEW JOB EVERY DAY

"Just look at Brown over there—he's been doing the same job for 43 years, and here I am getting tired of mine in 43 hours!"
"He hasn't done the same job for 43 years," replied the one listening to the above remark; "he has had a new job every day."

And that, my friend, is the only way to true success and lasting greatness. Don't go back to your desk tomorrow or today with the feeling that you are doing the same old thing. Remember that each day is new, distinct and by itself. It will never come again. Do your job in it as though it were new and would never be presented to you again.

Go to your new job every day! This will make you grow. This will give you inspiration and incentive and keep your interest warm. And every time you tackle the new job determine to do it better than the last one.

This will make every effort interesting and worth while, and every day will find you happy at its close, no matter how tired your body may be or how discouraged in spirit. Each day outgrow your shell. Be bigger with the passing of every day.

Mail Sacks Riffed.

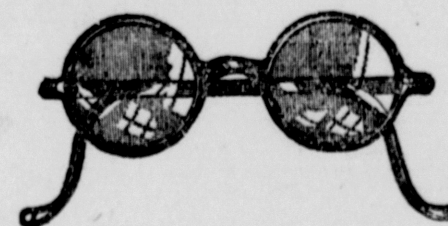

Mt. Vernon, O., July 10.—Robbers broke into the baggage room of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad here but failed to get anything of value as far as could be ascertained by officials. A number of mail sacks were riffed and a trunk was broken into. Efforts are being made to locate the owner of the trunk.

knew Davis during his service in Congress, as secretary general of the United States and later a ambassador to Great Britain, lauded him for his ability and success as a lawyer and statesman and predicted his success as the party's nominee for the White House.

The LaFollette progressives and officers of the conference for progressive political action, which endorsed the Wisconsin senator's presidential candidacy at Cleveland were elated.

"It is the best thing that could have happened," declared William H. Johnston, chairman of the Cleveland convention.

"The American people can no longer be fooled," Wall street has captured two tickets. There is only one issue now."

Chicago, July 10.—"Robert M. LaFollette's election to the presidency has been made a certainty through nomination of John W. Davis by Wall Street interests," it was declared today by Senator John M. Nelson, Wisconsin, national campaign manager for the Wisconsin senator.

UNITED STATES ATHLETES KEEP LONG LEAD IN OLYMPIC EVENTS

Paris, July 10.—America's athletes increased their lead over Finland and the field on the fourth day of the Olympics.

Jackson V. Scholz, New York Athletic club sprinter, for America, won the 200-meter dash. Dan Kinsey, University of Illinois, won the 110-meter hurdles, while the sensational 200-yard sprint race saw the United States take revenge for its defeat in the 100-meter dash by Harold Abrahams, the British ace, who finished last. In this event Charles W. Padlock of Los Angeles took second place to Scholz, while Bayes Norton of Yale and George, University of Pennsylvania, gave the United States a total of 20 points in this event alone.

With the twelfth event completed, the score was: United States 136, Finland 73, Great Britain 34½, Sweden 18½, Hungary 7½, Switzerland 6, South Africa 5, Norway 4, New Zealand 4.

Alleging that her mother-in-law, Lotia Markley, had used her influence upon Victor G. Don't stop saving just because a few investments are unprofitable. Loss of savings is no excuse for extravagance.

Veteran Financial Writer and Newspaper Man.

It seems as though a successful man ought to be smart enough to keep from getting stung. However, even the rich men and the so-called "captains of industry" make mistakes. Almost without exception a bunch of "cats and dogs" are found in the bottoms of their strong boxes after they die.

The rich man does not quit when he makes a mistake in investing his

WATER SUPPLY FOR NEW HOSPITAL UP TO CITY OF ELYRIA

Columbus, July 10.—John E. Harper, state welfare director, declared that whether or not the state welfare department can arrange for an adequate supply of water for the proposed new Grafton state hospital for feeble-minded depends upon the city council of Elyria, O. Meetings were held this week with city officials at Elyria, and the matter was referred to council for action. The supply of water at Elyria, which is pumped from Lake Erie, is amply sufficient to permit the sale of all the water that would be required at Grafton, six miles south. The rate that is charged large consumers, however, is entirely too high for the state to consider making a contract, and the question of whether a supply is sold to the state depends entirely upon the rate given. The proposition to sell the state water met with favor, but the issue is on the rates to be charged. If a satisfactory rate can be made, the board of control will be asked to make available funds immediately so that work of constructing a pipe line to the Grafton farm can be started.

BRINGING UP FATHER

LOVE-OR FAME?

by
VIOLET DARE
Author of "The Half-Time Wife"

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED.

DOROTHY LANE goes to New York to visit PERSIS GRANT and try to break into the movies. She meets LAWRENCE FRENCH, a young publicity man, and after a quarrel with Persis, goes to a girl's club with SYLVIA STEARNS and lives there. Through French she meets JOHN SEWARD, a famous star, and is engaged as his leading lady in an independent production that he is making. Seward, known as "the great lover of the screen," falls in love with her. Realizing that she cared more for Lawrence French than for him, she is much upset. Returning from a location trip early one morning, she sees Sylvia and Lawrence driving to the railway station together, and feels sure that they are eloping. But a note from Sylvia explains that she has an engagement with a stock company out of town and is leaving to fill it.

XXVI—THE CLOUDS CLEAR.

I JUST sat still for two or three minutes; I suppose I must have breathed, but it doesn't seem as if I could have. I was so happy since I'd read Sylvia's note and knew that she and Lawrence hadn't eloped.

I went upstairs then to my little room, and got out of my messy linen suit and into a kimono. And then I went into Sylvia's room.

Sure enough, she had broken the bed springs—they sagged way down in the middle, nearly to the floor. I could just imagine her jumping up and down there, not daring to shout, as she naturally would have because of the people who were asleep, and simply exploding with joy over her job. And suddenly I felt terribly sorry for all the girls in the world who have never known what it is to be as happy as that over getting work to do. I don't believe there's anything finer in the world!

I went back to my own little nook then, and had a bath, and drew down the window shade and turned into bed. It was cool, and so blessedly comfortable there. From the street below came the shouting of a vegetable peddler and the rattling of wagon wheels and the honking of automobile horns. The elevated trains rattled and the street cars bumped along with clanging bells, only half a block away.

But to me, in my little corner, there was only quiet and happiness. All the city's sounds rolled together into one voice, and I liked hearing that voice. When I first came to

New York, and stayed with Persis I used to lie awake nights sometimes listening to the city's roar and being afraid of it; it seemed like some great animal bellowing at me. But now it seemed kinder; I knew that I would never be afraid of it again.

I turned over, and thrust my arm up under the pillow and then turned back again, just because I was so beautifully comfortable that I wanted the joy of realizing it. I was still sorry that John Seward had proposed to me, and yet now I could appreciate the wonderful part of it. I could see how good to me he had been, from before the day when he insisted that I was to be allowed to have that big scene, instead of its being played up to him. I could see what a wonderful tribute he had paid me in asking me to marry him. But I knew, deep down in my heart, that I could never be his wife.

I don't know how long I slept, but it must have been quite a while, for the sun had gone far enough around the sky so that it no longer shone in my window, when I was awakened by Jenny's knocking on the door.

"Miss Lane—could you wake up and answer the telephone?" she asked, opening the door a crack and sticking her head in. "It's Mr. French, and he says he's got something awful important to say to you that can't wait!"

Could I talk to Lawrence? I simply leaped into a kimono and my slippers, and ran down to the hall below, where the telephone was.

"Lawrence!" I called, but only to have a central answer: "Your party has disconnected!"

"Oh, no!" I cried. But I knew that he would call me again in a moment, so I stood there waiting and wondering—yes, and hoping, too—about what Lawrence had to say to me.

Tomorrow—Two Telephone Calls.
